RENOWNED LUXURY DESIGNER REVITALIZES MANDARIN ORIENTAL, SAN FRANCISCO TO UNVEIL NEW LOOK ON ITS SILVER ANNIVERSARY

San Francisco, CA – Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco's award-winning property has been redesigned to reflect its Bay Area heritage by San Francisco-based interior designer Michael Booth with a renewed style and contemporary elegance befitting Mandarin Oriental's first hotel in the United States. Mr. Booth has been creating design experiences internationally for more than 25 years. As a principal of BAMO, Mr. Booth prides himself on retaining the finest highly-specialized designers to work exclusively in luxury hotel development.

The Lobby of Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco

The design model for Mandarin Oriental, San Francisco is a combination of subtle elements reflecting the group's Oriental heritage and a sense of place reflecting the ambiance and identity of San Francisco. The hotel's Sansome Street entrance welcomes guests into a serene lobby with a dramatic, travertine marble floor from Italy. Guests register at an elegantly curved front desk crafted from myrtle burl wood, topped with black granite and highlighted with a sculptural bronze light fixture from Paris. Guests ascend a striking curved glass staircase with a mapa burl wood veneer feature wall to second floor meeting rooms for social or corporate functions.

Guest Rooms and Suites

A residential, natural feel is key to the design of the guestrooms and suites. A calming, timeless aesthetic adds to the serenity of the hotel's 158 guest rooms and suites. A warm, neutral palette of blue tones frame dramatic views of San Francisco, the Bay and beyond from the city's third tallest building. Guests will experience the richness of San Francisco's ever-changing views from the sparkling waters and iconic fog of the Bay to the clarity of starry nights in their own “room in the sky”. Each guest room features furnishings custom designed with a nod toward French Deco for a home-away-from-home experience including plush blue couches, large white ash burl wooden desks, and 400-thread count linens promising a peaceful night’s slumber.

For the utmost indulgence, the hotel offers two spectacular signature suites on the 38th floor. Individually designed, each suite includes a furnished, landscaped 800 square foot terrace with spectacular views of San Francisco’s iconic landmarks and beyond. The interior features include expansive accommodations, thoroughly modernized and decorated in lush textures with a cool blue and silver palette. Spacious bathrooms provide a spa-like ambience with luxury rain head showers and freestanding sculptural bathtubs furnished with Molton Brown bath amenities to allow guests to indulge in comfort and relaxation.

Brasserie S&P

The 90-seat restaurant blends seamlessly with the bar to offer a lively, sophisticated yet informal dining experience, serving brasserie-style San Francisco cuisine and refined cocktails complemented with a diverse wine program. Large floor-to-ceiling windows invite natural light while capturing the city’s bustling street scene. Olive burl wood millwork, cozy leather banquettes, and velvet lounge chairs sit atop boldly designed carpeting. The stylish space is elegantly lit, featuring a large bar area that is furnished with a curved Italian white marble bar top. In addition, our team sourced vintage seltzer bottles, bringing San Francisco's rich glass history to Brasserie S&P's decor. Mandarin Oriental prides itself on respecting and promoting local history. Symbolic of our logo, the antique bottles bring to life the self reliance of San Franciscans as well as the historical significance of glass bottle making. In keeping with the self made tradition, the Bar Team crafts house made tonics to further infuse the originality of San Francisco and its residents.
