CELEBRATE THE NEW YEAR AT MANDARIN ORIENTAL, TOKYO WITH A TRADITIONAL JAPANESE NEW YEAR PACKAGE

Hong Kong, 4 October 2012 -- Mandarin Oriental, Tokyo's exclusive accommodation package for the New Year offers an opportunity to relax, reflect on the year gone by and celebrate the dawn of a new year in an environment resonating with Old World elegance and the sophisticated culture of Japan's Edo period (1603-1867).

Mandarin Oriental's New Year Package includes luxurious accommodation for a minimum stay of two nights between 31 December 2012 and 2 January 2013, daily breakfast for two, one festive lunch for two at either K'Shiki, the hotel's all-day dining restaurant, or Ventaglio, which offers a stylish Italian antipasto buffet. Celebrations continue with a delicious New Year's Eve or New Year's Day dinner at Signature, the modern French cuisine restaurant, or Sense, the authentic Cantonese restaurant, each featuring the hotel's speciality delicacies. Guests will also have the chance to view a traditional Japanese ceremony to welcome the New Year, as well as receiving a special Japanese New Year gift item as mementoes of their stay.

On New Year's Day, guests can take pleasure in a traditional Osechi breakfast with Otoso sake at Sense, located high above the Tokyo skyline on the 37th floor, with a view of the world's tallest broadcasting tower, the TOKYO SKYTREE®. Known as the "Centre of Japan" since the Edo period, the Nihonbashi neighbourhood is ideally located for access to many of Tokyo's most important sights. The hotel's direct subway access to Mitsukoshi-mae Station via the Ginza line is the best way to visit a variety of historic shrines, such as the Kanda Myojin Shrine, an important Shinto Shrine since the Edo period, the Suitengu Shrine, the Yushima Tenjin Shrine and the Meiji Shrine, where traditional Japanese celebrations to welcome in the New Year can be viewed.

During the afternoon of New Year's Day, the hotel will play host to a rare performance, by traditional Edo firefighters. Providing a unique insight into local Nihonbashi New Year celebrations, the firefighters, dressed in traditional Edo costume, offer blessings for health and peace in the New Year.
