GUESTROOMS AND SUITES REDEFINE LUXURY AND COMFORT AT MANDARIN ORIENTAL, WASHINGTON DC

WASHINGTON, DC – Guestrooms and suites at Mandarin Oriental, Washington DC delight visitors with décor, marrying Asian elegance with stylish traditional touches, set against the hotel’s signature water and district views. Several layouts are made possible by the unique shape of the building, with guestrooms measuring between 400 to 700 square feet.

The color palettes in most guestrooms feature gold, cream and neutral tones. On the eighth and ninth floor are the hotel’s Tai Pan accommodations, which feature a rich red, burgundy and beige color scheme along with flat panel televisions with HDTV. Nightstand lamps throughout, are a contemporary Japanese lantern design and artwork is a mixture of Western and Asian. Replica pieces from the Smithsonian Freer Gallery and Sackler Gallery are contrasted with work from contemporary American artists. The television rests on a piece inspired by a Japanese chest or “tansu,” that is commonly used in Northeast Asia, distinct for its simplicity of shape and material. The design is in keeping with the elements of Feng Shui. For example, the location of the mirror does not face the entry door thereby ensuring good luck is not reflected out of the room and circular forms draw good luck into the guestrooms.

All accommodations feature customized furnishings, high-speed Internet access, three dual-line phones with voicemail, flat screen televisions and lavish marble bathrooms, many with views from generous soaking tubs.

Signature Suites...Redefined

Using a harmonious balance of colors, texture and materials, the designers’ vision was to create a classic yet modern feel that would welcome both leisure and business guests. The goal was to
