BRITISH FASHION DESIGNER JENNY PACKHAM SELECTED TO DESIGN FAN FOR MANDARIN ORIENTAL HYDE PARK, LONDON

To celebrate the relaunch of Mandarin Oriental Hyde Park, London, esteemed British Fashion Designer Jenny Packham has been selected to design a bespoke fan for the hotel.

Having held her own wedding in The Ballroom, Jenny shares a close relationship with Mandarin Oriental Hyde Park, London and drew on its unique setting overlooking the park to create a stunning piece depicting a collage of green foliage.

Delicate organza appliqued leaves embellished with sequins and crystals, and hand-embroidered with metallic threads, create the body of the fan, which is supported by rosewood sticks, laser cut in the pattern of the railings on the gates of nearby Apsley House. This fan is on display in the lobby of the hotel.

Designer Jenny rose to fame as a bridal wear designer, creating exquisite dresses worn by the cream of British society. Over the last few years, Jenny has built up her ready-to-wear collections and is now widely regarded as one of the UK's pre-eminent designers.

With flagship stores in London, Paris, Hong Kong and Korea, Jenny has dressed the likes of Taylor Swift, Emily Blunt, Adele and the Duchess of Cambridge, who has often been seen in her designs.
