ASIA MEETS THE TROPICS WITH MANDARIN ORIENTAL, MIAMI'S ARCHITECTURE & INTERIOR DESIGN

The unique design of Mandarin Oriental, Miami brings a new level of luxury to Florida's famously vibrant international city. The building's curved architecture reflects Mandarin Oriental Hotel Group's signature fan logo, while also allowing the hotel's 326 guest rooms and 15,000-square-foot of meeting space to offer stunning views of Biscayne Bay and the Miami skyline. The interior design combines a contemporary South Florida influence with touches of Asian luxury.

The 20-story building is made up of three major guestroom blocks, the profile of which has been sheared in an upward sweep, then linked by a curved podium of public spaces at the ground level. The curved balconies of the guest floors above echo the radius of the podium.

The property features spacious guest rooms and suites. The Spa at Mandarin Oriental, Miami – with 18 treatment rooms including six private suites – complements a comprehensive fitness center, private beach and an infinity-edge swimming pool.

Other features of the hotel include La Mar by Gastón Acurio, a lively Peruvian restaurant with both indoor and outdoor waterfront terrace seating and MO Bar + Lounge, a sophisticated bar and lounge overlooking Biscayne Bay.

Conference and banqueting facilities offering 15,000-square-foot of meeting space can accommodate more than 600 people. In addition, the hotel features a business center and all the services and amenities that are typically provided by Mandarin Oriental hotels worldwide.

The arc of public spaces – the atrium lobby, MO Bar + Lounge, The Spa, fitness center, pool and beach – is oriented towards the view of Miami and Biscayne Bay. As guests travel over the bridge to Brickell Key and enter the hotel, they are greeted with a vibrant, freestanding copper-clad restaurant designed by Tony Chi and Associates of New York. After passing through the portal created by the bridge linking the main hotel with the ballroom and banquet facilities, guests pass into the entry court where they are greeted with the soothing view of lush landscaping.

As guests then pass through the glass and steel canopy and intimate entry vestibule, they arrive in the high-ceilinged lobby where floor-to-ceiling glass windows offer striking views of Miami's skyline over the water. At night, the two-story bay windows of the lobby and lounges glow like lanterns when seen from across the bay. Just outside the lobby, guests are soothed by the sound of cascading water as they sit alongside the infinity-edge pool overlooking Biscayne Bay.

Both the color and texture of the material palette have been inspired by the vernacular of Miami, while the basic building material is full cement stucco of white and ochre on concrete block. Sophisticated layering and overlapping of wooden screens and structural elements of Asian architecture inspired the detailing around the podium, such as the bay windows of the lobby and the ballroom pre-function space.

Restful Interiors Combine Contemporary Influence with Classic Artistic Design

The interior décor by Atlanta-based designer Jan Clausen showcases a harmonious balance between colors, texture and materials. The design theme for guest rooms and common areas captures the energy found in the vibrancy of Miami, blended with the relaxing atmosphere of a luxury residence.

Custom pillow shams, Anichini bed linens, and Oriental lantern-inspired bedside and floor lamps are just some of the intricate décor details that evoke understated elegance with Asian accents. All guestrooms feature balconies overlooking Biscayne Bay or the Miami skyline.

Guest rooms provide a tranquil and relaxing refuge with all the modern comforts of home, featuring audio-visual equipment finely integrated into the furniture wall which is fabricated from recycled
