About Messika

Founded in Paris in 2005, Messika was created and orchestrated by Valérie Messika, daughter of the famous diamond dealer André Messika. Her jewellery is new and unexpected; the contemporary style and forms reinterpret the traditions of fine jewellery whilst revealing their creator's profound passion for diamonds. Celebrating its tenth anniversary, this dynamic brand has made waves in the world of fine jewellery since its first collection. Delicate yet strong, confident, and feminine, Messika designs possess volume and movement, sensual fluidity, and ergonomic comfort, blending couture and urban street style, high tech and handcraft, with the exquisite nobility of the diamond, for an attitude of casual glamour and a look of modern luxury. By designing jewels which are movable and ergonomic and which enhance the female form, she has invented an original language for diamonds and introduced her contemporary style to a new generation in search of modernity. Driven by its success, Messika now has 250 stores in 50 countries around the world. In 2013, the Maison launched its first flagship store on one of the most luxurious streets in Paris, at 259 Rue Saint-Honoré and in 2015, its first High Jewelry Atelier.
