DOWN THE GANGES

Whisky | Mango | Gram Masala | Milk Wash

The Silk Route through to India took travelers down the Ganges. The cocktail's flavour profile mimics the story of travelers of the cool air coming down the mountains and being hit with the smell of spice.

APOLLO

Mediterranean Gin | Olive | Clarified Tomato | Basil

The Mediterranean started trading on the Silk Route, mainly due to the artwork. An artist in Japan was commissioned to do a painting of the Great Greek God, Apollo. It proved so popular, that many of the rich reached out to the East for more paintings.

GLASSBLOWERS

Vodka | Raspberry Campari | Pineapple & Rosemary Syrup | Tonic

Travelers came to Italy for its fantastic glassware, mainly being produced in Venice. While stopping over, travelers would bring tropical fruits and herbs while indulging in the local alcohol being produced, Amaro.

THE ROYAL ROAD

Blueberry Rum | Apricot Brandy | Pistachio | Apple | Egg Whites

The early parts of the Silk Route, travelling through Persia, was known as the Royal Road. The name came from the rich and famous who were the only ones who could afford to use the route for trading. The route had stops which included stables with horses so travelling would take less time as they were able to have a rested horse to take the goods.

AN EYE FOR A PEARL

Miso | Caramel | Rooibos | Apple | Ginger Ale

Japan became fascinated in the pearls of the Middle East. Travelers coming from Africa frequently stopped by in the Middle East and began bringing these shiny pearls back to the East where they became a big hit.

HEXI

Earl Grey | 5 Spice | Tamarind | Apple

China was the biggest consumer along the Silk Route, but it was always difficult to navigate across. The Hexi corridor was established to help this and this is when the Silk Route really started to take off.

FLOWER IN THE PLAINS

Pomegranate | Rose | Coriander | Hibiscus

Floral Perfumes were found across Arabia. These were produced from rose fields which would appear, almost out of nowhere amongst the Arabian desert.

TALAD NAAM

Dragon Fruit | Papaya | Thai Basil | Passionfruit

Southeast Asia started becoming a part of the Silk Route when there was a demand for its tropical fruits and jasmine rice. At risk of the fruit's quality dropping with each passing day, Thailand would use the Mekong river to transport them quicker. Locals quickly started trading along this river and creating what is known locally as Talad Naam, floating market, which are still around today.
