

THE HISTORY OF AFTERNOON TEA

In England during the mid-1800s, the Duchess of Bedford popularized taking a small meal and cup of tea in the late afternoon to help her outlast the long stretch before dinner. The Duchess would often invite friends to join her, and this practice quickly spread to become a fashionable social event.

Our Traditional Afternoon Tea is steeped in this history and is inspired by the Rosebury Traditional Afternoon Tea at the Mandarin Oriental Hyde Park in London.

We have brought several highlights, including our exquisite “Mandarin” tea stands, to Beijing, so that you can enjoy the best of London and the United Kingdom, whilst taking in unparalleled views of the Forbidden City.
