COGNAC

The Ugni Blanc grape accounts for almost all of the grapes grown in Cognac region and is the most widely used in Cognac production. This region, just northeast of Bordeaux, is subdivided into several smaller areas, each recognized as a cru. The finest quality Cognacs come from Grande Champagne, followed by Petite Champagne, while the Fine Champagne designation is a blend of the two.

CALVADOS

Normandy, in west France, is too cold for grapes to fully ripen but the conditions are ideal for growing apples and pears. Calvados is a distilled hard cider made from a combination of dozens of varieties of apples and/or pears. Each different kind of fruit will have its own special qualities and level of sweetness to impart to the spirit that will be aged in oak barrels for a minimum of 2 years.

BRANDY | 白兰地

EAU DE VIE

The name means “water of life” and could refer to any fruit that has been distilled. Cognac begins as an eau de vie and only becomes cognac after it has been aged. These clear, unaged spirits throw off incredible amounts of fruit in the nose.

GRAPPA

Grappa is distilled grape pomace: stems, seeds, skins, etc. that are left over from the wine-making process. Traditionally, this spirit was simply a creative way of utilizing a by-product that could be made, essentially for free, if one had a still of some kind.
